Senior Vice President, Finance

Robert (Bobby) Schwerin is Senior Vice President of finance for 7-Eleven, Inc. He is responsible for providing leadership, direction, and management of the accounting, planning, treasury, tax, enterprise project management, shared services, and internal audit functions. Bobby joined 7-Eleven in 2013 and has served as Vice President, Tax, while also leading several strategic finance initiatives throughout his tenure.

Prior to joining 7-Eleven, Bobby worked as an officer for Safety-Kleen Systems, Inc. for over 10 years. He joined as director of tax in 2002, was promoted to Vice President, and added responsibility for mergers and acquisitions for his final 5 years including a dual IPO/sale process culminating in the successful sale of the company. In the early stages of his tenure, Bobby worked with the senior executive team and outside advisors through a complex financial restructuring of the business culminating in the successful emergence of the company from bankruptcy followed by several incrementally beneficial rounds of refinancing to set the company up for its next growth stage.

Bobby earned a master's degree in tax and a bachelor's degree in accounting from the University of North Texas. He later completed a 2-year executive finance program at Southern Methodist University.

Bobby is a certified public accountant, maintains several professional memberships including Tax Executives Institute (TEI), and serves on the tax committee for the Retail Industry Leaders Association (RILA). Bobby resides in Frisco with his wife, Tatum, and their two children.
